Chinese Resisting Japanese Today Around Tsingtao

(By The Associated Press)
Shanghai, Dec. 30.—Japanese armies met stiff Chinese resistance today on Shantung province fronts outside Tsingtao, the dynamite-rocked North China seaport from which a number of Americans were in flight.
Japanese sources themselves sent word of fierce fighting some 100 miles west of Tsingtao, between the railroad centers of Weishien and Tsinchow. South of Tsinan, the conqueror provincial capital, warfare on the outskirts of Tsinan gave China's sacred mountain, Tai Shan, a baptism of fire.
The United States gunboat Sacramento docked in Shanghai and disembarked first American civilian refugees from the threatened port 100 miles to the north. Twenty-five Americans, with a number of nurses and dependents, made the trip.
Refugees to Shanghai
Another contingent of American Tsingtao refugees headed for Shanghai on the steamer Shun-tien. The United States cruiser Marblehead and destroyer Lope stood ready to evacuate remaining Americans.
Still more Americans fled from the spreading warfare deep in China's interior. A flag-decked refugee train left Hankow for Hongkong with 312 Americans and other foreigners under Japanese assurance of safe passage.
Even though resistance delayed the Japanese advance on Tsingtao, Chinese apparently were resigned to loss of the city. They spread destruction with dynamite and flames to leave for the war machine engaged in swallowing five North China provinces only "scorched earth," broken tile.

President Says He'll Deliver His Annual Statement to Congress in Person—Will Speak at Jackson Day Dinner.

ICKES TONIGHT Jackson Says Business on "General Strike"—Great Significance Attached to Speeches.

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—Outspoken attacks on "big business" by high administration officials provided a prelude today for President Roosevelt's annual message to Congress.
The continuity of the attack left little doubt that it was a pre-arranged staging for the address, in which the Chief Executive generally is expected to outline his program for meeting the business recession.
Speaking in Philadelphia yesterday, Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson charged business with "a general strike" designed to "liquidate the New Deal." Tonight over a national radio hook-up, Secretary Ickes will carry on in similar vein under the title, "It is happening here."
To emphasize the importance of his annual message, Mr. Roosevelt has announced he would deliver it in person. He will speak again Saturday, January 8, at the Democratic Jackson Day dinner.
Great significance has been attached by Washington observers to the tone of recent administration speeches. They followed a period of apparent indecision over future policies in view of the business situation.
Spokesmen for "left wing" administration followers were beginning to express the belief that the President was yielding to business demands. Conservative elements in the Democratic party had started to congratulate Mr. Roosevelt for showing a more friendly attitude toward industry.

Supervisors Hold Final Meeting of Year Wednesday

The final meeting of the 1937-1938 Ulster County Board of Supervisors was held Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the court house at which time the concluding business of the session was transacted and the board then adjourned sine die.
Report of the committee of equalization regarding examination of the tax rolls was received and adopted. This report stated that the average rate of assessment in the county, computed, is $819.7322. The value of the real property in the villages and city and also the value of the real property outside the villages and cities was given in a detailed statistical report. The figures are substantially the same as last year.
A report was also made by the committee of Ration and Appropriation for the several tax districts of the county and this report was also adopted. This report also included the rates for the various special districts in the county.
The customary final report of the committee on Form and Footing of assessment rolls was presented and adopted.

Government Spending Must End, Says Callan

Supervisors' Association Hears Major Callan Warn, "We Can't Continue Present Spending Orgy" Without Complete Collapse

Major Albert Callan of Chatham, former member of the New York State Legislature and a delegate to the 1938 State Constitutional Convention, speaking before the 21st annual banquet of the Ulster County Supervisors' Association at Hotel Stuyvesant Wednesday night cautioned the supervisors and their predecessors in office who had gathered for the annual festive occasion that "we can't continue the present spending orgy and look to the day when everyone can be supported by government." He decried the present "paternal" trend of government and said that unless there was a halt in increasing government costs there would come a complete collapse.

Fireman's Widow Is Granted $3,000 By Appellate Court

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 30 (AP)—The widow of a fireman burned fatally in his own home while combating a fire is entitled to compensation, the appellate division, third department, has decided, even though the department of which he was a member had not arrived.
In a three-to-two decision last night, the tribunal granted a $3,000 compensation claim to Mrs. Anna Hommel, of Centerville, Ulster county, for the death of her husband, Oscar Hommel.
Although the town of Saengerites contested the claim on the ground that no alarm had been sounded for the fire and Hommel was not on active duty, the court held that it would be "folly" for the fireman to await arrival of the apparatus before acting.

A warning was sounded to the people of the country to keep their feet on the ground and not heed to the agitators interested in foreign types of government who are constantly spreading propaganda to influence the citizens of this country toward the governments of Russia, Germany, Italy and Spain, forms of government which the speaker said would ultimately lead to war if the people of the country allowed themselves to be swayed.
"Keep government in the hands of local men," he urged, and it such a form of government is maintained he said there need be no fear for the future. As a delegate to the Constitutional Convention in 1938 he pledged himself to work for a continuation of local self-government.
"I will do everything in my power to resist any efforts toward disposing of local self-government. I will oppose any further delegation of local government to state or eventually Federal government," said Major Callan. He said that already there had been too much delegation of power to the state and federal government and as a result he said taxes were rising. Our present "paternal" form of government, he said, was responsible for the vast increase in cost of government in the last few years.

Fixed Demands
Much of the increase was due to things which local legislators have no power over, they are fixed demands placed by the state and nation upon local taxpayers causing a belief in the present spending orgy and building up the belief in the minds of the masses that the "government owes us a living." He said this tendency must be halted and the people must come to realize that rather than the government supporting the people the "people owe the government support." He urged all to heed this warning and avoid the misleading influences of foreign agitation.

In opening his remarks Major Callan said that he realized the session was not a political meeting, that there were members of both parties present and he said he was not attacking any administration but would confine himself to known facts. As to his political faith he said "you can't be a politician and a realist at the same time." He then paid his respects to Mr. Elting whom he said he had known many years and whom he admired for his great ability.

The responsibilities of the board of supervisors in any county was great, said the speaker. These men were directly responsible to their townspeople. The board of supervisors was one of the oldest institutions in the country. For a century and a half such boards have been functioning for the welfare of the county and he said he was in favor of continued local government.

Tracing the trend of the times down from the "Horse and buggy" days of 30 years ago he said the cost of government had been constantly increasing because of increased demands. Coming of the

PSC Reserves Ruling On Lights at Crossings

Railroad Would Use Only Kerosene Lamps on Gate Arms—Heiselman, Cashin Represent City at Hearing on Wednesday

Albany, Dec. 30, (Special).—The Public Service Commission, at the conclusion of the final hearing Wednesday afternoon on the question of additional protection at six New York Central Railroad grade crossings in the city of Kingston, reserved decision, pending further study of the testimony and exhibits offered at the hearing.

Appellate Branch Rules 1930 Scale No Proper Basis

The theory that 1930 valuations are a proper basis for fixing compensation for lands taken for the construction of the Rondout-Deleware water project by the city of New York has been disapproved by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.
The court holds that testimony as to value in 1930 is not competent to fix the value of the lands taken at this time. Since the beginning of operations in this locality on the new New York City water project, claims have been presented to the Commissioners of Appraisal on the theory that at the present time there is no "fair market value" for real estate in this locality and that the last year in which "average values" prevailed was in 1930.
On that theory the claimants have proceeded and testimony as to values in 1930 have been admitted in evidence for the consideration of the commissioners in making awards.

New York Objects
When the theory was advanced the city of New York objected and the question was taken on appeal to the Appellate Division in an appeal from two awards made by Delaware Section 6 commission. The commissioners, Messrs. E. Frank Flanagan, Arthur Butler Graham and Samuel E. Aronowitz, on June 24 last made their first separate report in which they awarded the Ezra and Marie Empt award of $19,550 and the Lucy Barthel award of $5,550.
Later motion for confirmation of the awards was made to Justice Sydney F. Foster at special term and on August 7, last, the matter came on before the court at Albany. At that time the city of New York objected to the theory that 1930 valuations were admissible as evidence and held that the testimony should be confined as to the value of the lands on November 15, 1935, the date of the taking. The city also objected to the confirmation of the Empt award as being grossly excessive.

Awards Insufficient.
Attorneys for the claimants argued that the awards were inadequate.
The proceedings, of which Wednesday's hearing was a part, were instituted by the commission following on receipt of an application by Mayor Heiselman for additional flashing light and signal protection on the Kingston crossings. It is maintained by city officials that the gates at the crossings should be equipped with electric lights, a plan the railroad company representatives assert is too costly.

Attack Called "Mistake"

London, Dec. 30 (AP)—Japan, in a note to Britain made public today, declared Japanese attacks on the Gunboat Ladybird and other British ships in China waters were a mistake.
New orders have been given to Japanese forces, the note said, for the greatest possible care that attacks shall not be made upon the lives and property of British or other nationals.

The note was similar in content to the Japanese explanation of bombing the American Gunboat Panay and three Standard Oil vessels.
The British foreign office released the explanation, in reply to British protests against such incidents, without any comment to indicate whether it was satisfactory.

Of the British request for punishment of those responsible, the Japanese note said that the government was studying the matter.
"In order to insure against the possibility of similar mistakes, we have dealt properly according to law with the commanding and other military officers concerned, and with the commanding and other naval officers of the squadrons responsible, on the ground they failed to take full precautions." The disciplinary action was not detailed.

Mrs. Robinson May Be American, Officials Say

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—New evidence that the "Mrs. Donald L. Robinson" figuring in a mysterious Moscow disappearance might be an American citizen prompted the State Department to intensify its efforts toward her identification.
The department sent a photograph of a woman answering her general description to the American embassy at the Russian capital. The picture was that of Ruth Marie Rubens of New York, born Ruth Boerger at Philadelphia.
If embassy officials decide the women are the same, authorities said, they will call on the Soviet government for information as to her whereabouts.

"Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Robinson" are believed to be under arrest. Soviet Ambassador Troianovsky has said here he did not believe they were American citizens. He suggested the couple might be in detention for an espionage investigation.

A couple listed on passport records as "Adolph Arnold Rubens and Ruth Marie Rubens" sailed from New York to Naples in October under circumstances which have led to speculation at the State Department that the "Rubens" couple and the "Robinsons" might be the same. The "Robinsons" vanished a few weeks later in Moscow.

Condemned to Wadlin

Supervisor Snyder, of Saengerites, moved that the secretary of the board write a letter of condolence to Supervisor John Wadlin, of Hightstown, whose mother died suddenly on Tuesday.
A telegram was also read from Supervisor Stanbrough, who, because of illness, was unable to attend the final session. He extended best wishes for the New Year to the board.

Clerks' Salaries

A resolution adopted December 19, 1937, approving the report of the Committee on Salaries was amended in so far as it pertains to the appointment of clerks in the office of the county clerk and the designation of classes. The original report failed to state the various grades and salaries for each grade of clerk as has been the custom in the past. The amendment provides that there shall be the usual Grade A, $12,000 for those employed over four years; Grade B, at $11,000 for those employed over three years; Grade C at $10,000 for those employed over two years; Grade D, at $9,000 for those employed over a year and Grade E, at $8,000 a year for those employed less than a year in the office.

The board authorized the county Superintendent of Highways to construct a driveway giving access to the Nello and Anna Ravina property on the Plank road as a part of the compensation to the claimants for lands taken for highway purposes. The cost of the work will come from the Rights of Way Fund.

On motion of Supervisors Cashin and Denniston the county appropriated the sum of $8,000 for the county's share of laboratory work for 1938 and there will be an agreement similar to last year entered into with the City Laboratory for the work. The State will reimburse the county for the amount of one-half of the cost.
The District Attorney was authorized to draw upon the county of $2,000 for current expenses of the office during 1938.
Bills for services during the last year were read and ordered paid and then on motion of Dr. P. Van Wageningen the board adjourned sine die.

Girl, Heroine of Fire at Jersey City; Two Killed

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 30 (AP)—Two score men stood by today ready to give blood transfusions to a 32-pound blonde heroine of the Plaza Hotel fire who stuck to her switchboard yesterday arousing guests as she beat out her blazing clothing with her hands.
Among the last to flee the fire fatal to two other hotel employees, 26-year-old Helen Sullivan had to run through a wall of flame in the lobby, and staggered into the street so badly burned no one at first recognized her.
Part of her dress was burned off, and her face, chest and hands were burned.
Nearly delirious from pain when she reached the Medical Center she asked about an aged widow and an aged couple who lived at the hotel. Told all the guests were saved, her flame-blackened face twisted into a smile.

Death of two employees and injuries to nine other persons was attributed by Police Chief Harry Walsh to panic and a 25-minute delay in turning in a fire alarm.
William Marx, 24-year-old house boy, overcome by smoke as he aroused guests, and Mrs. Ida Thomas, 60, negro head maid, were killed in the fire yesterday.

Bird Census

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—One of the most unusual census in the world got under way today. It's the annual count of the birds in the Bronx Zoo. It takes two weeks, and the census-taker is Curator Lee Crandall. He has about 2,000 birds in his jurisdiction, but he wants to know exactly how many there are. The census never comes out right. There are always a couple of birds missing. He writes those off as "escaped unnoticed."

Cost $63,780.74 To Keep Streets In City Repaired

During the year the city expended the sum of $63,780.74 for highway maintenance, according to the annual report of Superintendent David P. Conway of the Board of Public Works. Of that amount, $38,757.56 was spent for labor and $25,023.18 for materials and supplies.

Superintendent Conway reported that during 1937 a more permanent type of resurfacing was used, whereby a street, which had a satisfactory foundation, was not built up too high to permit resurfacing, and where the curbs were in a fair state of alignment and grade. This work is known as retread surfacing and presents a durable type of bituminous surface of sufficient thickness and body to withstand present day demands. Under ordinary use the durability should be at least 10 years where the sub-base is constructed properly and it is very economical. The primary requirements of such construction are clean stone and good asphalt heated to the correct temperature.

Among the improvements made during the year and noted in the report are the widening of Monticue street from Broadway to Wurts street, the complete reconstruction of Van Buren street, while retread surfacing was used on South Manor avenue and Cornell street, Prospect street, Bruyn avenue, Sycamore street and Abbey street.

Attention was directed in the report to the fact that the amount of materials purchased and used in highway maintenance increased 100 per cent over that used in 1936.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

Sour Stuff

Franklin, Ind.—Persons who took swigs of bootleg hooch recently and exclaimed, "hat tastes like vinegar," didn't know how right they were.

Martin Luther Woods, 59, charged with distilling corn liquor, told Judge Charles B. Staff that keen competition with legal establishments had forced bootleggers to cut their liquor with vinegar—on a 50-50 basis.

Punished

Madisonville, Ky.—Courthouse visitors were puzzled today to find Charles Taylor, 16, negro, standing on one foot with both hands in the air.

The unusual punishment was meted out by County Judge Charles Barnett. The youth was charged with attempted burglary. The judge told Taylor to assume the statue pose each day until further notice. He decides each day when the youth has had enough.

Fickle

Seattle — Women may be changeable, but County Auditor

Earl Milikin gives the mid-changing championship to a prospective bridegroom.

The youth asked for his money back on a marriage license. "That was impossible," he asked whether he could use it for another girl. The answer was no.

"Aw nuts!" he exclaimed. "Guess I'll go back to the first girl."

Hogging the Pork

Chicago — Casimir Liebowicz appeared in police court and ate a piece of pork before Judge Joseph J. Eiss.

"My daughter sent me half a pig for Christmas," Liebowicz said. "It weighed 42 pounds. When Mike Harewicz, my neighbor, saw it he said he'd like to show it to his wife. I let him. But when I went for my half pig Mike just laughed and wouldn't give up anything except this little chunk."

Then Liebowicz held up a four pound piece of fresh pork—the tail end of a pig.

Five men who helped organize the San Francisco cemetery workers' union in 1902 are still on the job.

Thank you, Rosejean —and thank you all

A telephone subscriber in a suburban town was taken ill, and her small daughter, Rosejean, helped her by doing the telephoning. One day Rosejean said:

"You know, Mother, the telephone operators just love to have me talk to them."

"Why, Rosejean," her mother replied "how do you know that?"

"Because every time I call up, they say 'Thank you.'"

As 1937 draws to a close, we extend this "Thank you" to all telephone subscribers for your use of telephone service this year. And throughout the coming year we hope to merit your continued use of the service that helps you reach body, anywhere, any time—quickly, clearly and at low cost. Thank you, York Telephone Company.

4-H Club Program Instructs Rotary About Rural Youth

Members and guests in attendance at the local Rotary meeting in the Governor Clinton yesterday afternoon underwent a delightful experience when various members of the 4-H Club of Ulster county spoke on the value such work had given them. These four members, varying in age and interested in different 4-H Club projects, explained the advantages that membership had given them and it was obvious that their training had done much to make them better and more worthwhile citizens. To do this is the basic reason for the existence of 4-H Clubs throughout the United States for it serves as an interest point for the rural youth of America.

Today there are approximately one million and a third 4-H Club members in this country and the Ulster county unit numbers about 600. Every type of project for the rural boy and girl is open to their special talents be it dairying, gardening, bee keeping, home making or canning. It is necessary that each member undertake at least one project each year but most members take several.

Albert Kurdt of the Farm Bureau office introduced Ed Bower as the man responsible for the success of 4-H Club work in Ulster county and Mr. Bower paid tribute to Mr. Kurdt as the father of the movement here.

New Members Speak.
The first member to speak was Abram Winchell, a relatively new member in 4-H, whose main interest is in dairying. Young Mr. Winchell pleased his audience with a report on his activities since joining the club and he was followed by Marie Contant who enjoyably explained how interested she had become in dress-making and home making.

Following the talks of the two youthful members, Mr. Bower introduced Ann DuBois who is one of the older members of the Ulster 4-H Club and who is now a junior at Cornell. Miss DuBois spoke on the social advantages of membership and said that the contacts made at Grange meetings and rallies had proven invaluable to her. She also said that the 4-H Club movement offered much in the way of vocational guidance and was of special advantage to a girl interested in domestic science.

The last member to speak was Wesley Smith who has been in the local 4-H Club organization for seven years. Mr. Smith is now a student at Cornell and he has been the winner of many prizes for his activity in the club. Mr. Smith said that generalization rather than specialization was essential to successful farming because the hazards of nature made it impossible for a farmer to have several different sources of farm income to rely on should one fail because of conditions beyond his control.

THE NEW YEAR BEGINS

The American people are entering the New Year in a far different mood than the one which enveloped us a year ago. Then we were apparently prosperous and at peace with the world. Corporations were vying with one another in granting extra dividends and bonuses. Unemployment seemed to be steadily decreasing just as business was continually climbing. There seemed no reason to feel that we were in danger of becoming involved in a critical war with any foreign power. Politically we seemed to have entered another era of good feeling.

But the unfolding of the year 1937 brought a decided change. Labor troubles followed one another in rapid succession, taxes mounted and business instead of continuing to climb began to level off and then to start a decline. The stock market hesitated, halted and then put on one of the sharpest and severest declines in the history of the exchange.

The sudden attack of Japan and China and the resultant bombing of American ships and the sinking of the gunboat with loss of life, brought us into the midst of an international crisis. The political era of good feeling was disrupted by the long fight in Congress over the proposal of the President to make over the Supreme Court. Following this came the special session of Congress, which failed to accomplish the work set out for it and resulted among other things in the defeat of the President's wages and hours bill.

At the beginning of 1938, therefore, the American people are confronted with an entirely different set of problems than the one they had to face at the beginning of 1937. It is admitted that we are in a business recession. Just what that means nobody at this moment can tell. Everyone hopes that the recession will be short lived and that we will soon again take up the march toward normalcy. Employees are still being dropped and the total number of idle persons may continue growing for a few weeks, but the indications suggest that the bottom of the recession will probably be reached in January and February. After that a rise may be expected.

So this "winter of our discontent" will pass, unless something unforeseen occurs to spoil the picture. Expectation of improvement in the spring makes the present discouragement easier to bear.

CALM IN "RECESSION"

The British, it appears, take their troubles calmly. Anne O'Hare McCormick, who has been traveling in Europe, talking with statesmen, private citizens, business men, and others, found Great Britain as deeply involved in the present-day chaos and uncertainty as any country. The business "recession" there is a little worse than ours, because it has come even while heavy building construction and the rearmament program are still going at top speed.

With all this, she found the British more cheerful and untroubled than any people she has seen in her explorations. "The British worry less than any people on earth," she writes. "They are not worrying now. Never was this rejuvenated town (London) so bright, so bustling, so bent on merry-making. Listening to its pleasantly aimless talk, it becomes clear that the British live much less in the moment than we do. The news in general is less important. In this respect London is actually farther from Europe than New York."

Perhaps this is because the British have seen so many tense moments come and go and have outlasted so many world crises. If they do not hope to find an immediate answer to all the riddles, they at least expect to keep going. Whether this is faith or pride, it seems to be a good temperament to have in a very tumultuous world.

CHINESE VICTORY

Speaking to an American correspondent in his hide-out somewhere in the upper Yangtze Valley, Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek declares his faith in ultimate victory for the Chinese. "Tell America," he says, "to have complete confidence in us. The tide of battle is turning and victory eventually will be ours."

Yes, probably it will. China has always won in the end. But usually it has been through patience and the operation of natural forces. Again and again, she has defeated her conquerors as a big fish defeats a little fish—by swallowing and digesting them.

The Chinese might defeat the Japanese now, if Russia could and would come to their aid quickly in great strength. But Russia, though eager to help, and possessing far greater military resources than China, also moves slowly. Without more speed from her Red ally than China has any apparent reason to expect, and without a quicker collapse of Japanese militarism from lack of money and materials than now seems likely, China may have Japan in her stomach for quite a while. The victory that Chiang Kai Shek speaks of might not come for a generation or two.

FOODS CAUSE SYMPTOMS

Many individuals who suffer with digestive upsets—stomach and intestines—believe that the food eaten was not "just right," that they were perhaps tired when they ate the food or that there might have been some food from a previous meal lying in the stomach when they ate the food.

When hives (urticaria) occur after eating, they soon learn which food or foods are causing it and avoid it. Instead of hives or digestive upsets, there may be "head colds," asthma, eczema or other skin irritation from the use of certain foods, and none of these symptoms are ever considered due to the foods eaten.

Among the first foods found to be the cause of hives, digestive upsets, head colds, and asthmatic attacks were such good everyday foods as eggs, milk, and meat. This discovery was made by the use of skin tests and close watch on foods eaten. By avoiding or cutting down on these special foods the symptoms were prevented or greatly lessened.

The next step was to try to remove this sensitiveness—allergy—to foods by the use of injections of small amounts of the foods into the body, just as the pollen from ragweed and other plants is injected. In a great many cases after a few weeks' treatment, the individual found that he was able to eat the usual serving of the offending food and have none of the previous symptoms—skin irritation, digestive upsets, head colds or asthma, one-sided headache—migraine.

There are many who have learned what foods to avoid from everyday experience, and keep themselves free as far as possible from any disturbances. However, some of these foods are greatly liked by the individual besides being very nourishing; having to do without them is a real hardship. Some years ago it was discovered that with many individuals a very small quantity of the offending food were eaten one hour before the regular mealtime, the offending food could be eaten at mealtime without causing any symptoms.

No food of any kind should be eaten between meals. This is absolutely necessary in order to prevent symptoms.

There should be a space of at least three or four hours after the previous meal before this tiny amount of food is eaten. This knowledge may give more enjoyment and health to many allergic individuals.

Food Allergy
 "What is one man's food is another man's poison" is an old saying but the truth of it is being proved almost daily by leading research physicians throughout the world. Some individuals are over-sensitive to certain foods and will have colds in their heads, "saufy" noses, pains in the stomach or abdomen when they eat those foods, while others suffer no ill effects after eating the same foods. "Food Allergy," booklet No. 106, by Dr. Barton tells how to discover the offending foods and what to do about them. You may obtain this booklet by sending Ten Cents for each copy desired to cover handling and service to The Bell Library, in care of Kingston Daily Freeman, 217 West 43rd St., New York, N. Y.

DARE TO DREAM

BY ALICE MARIE DODGE

The Characters
 Nelda, a beautiful, courageous girl, almost loses hope when the lettuce crop on which her dreams depended, is ruined.
 Bill, a tanned, young lettuce farmer, he and Nelda are drawn together, but clash over Rock.
 Rock, a wealthy playboy, has put Nelda in an awkward situation when his car breaks down in a storm.
 Mrs. Reckless, Rock's cold and arrogant mother, dislikes Nelda.
 Jack, Nelda's younger brother, has left medical school and disappeared.

Chapter 21 A Proposal

BILL was coming back. "Did you receive an offer for your lettuce?" he inquired, the sternness in his face unrelaxing. "Yes," Nelda's voice was brittle. "Better take it."

"Thanks for looking out for my interests—even if you do disapprove of me," she simply couldn't resist adding that last.

"Why should I disapprove of you?" He said it in a way that made her feel foolish. It was as if he'd said, "I'm not interested in you sufficiently to care what you do."

"My mistake," she mocked and turned her back.

Because of his remark about the lettuce, she'd been on the point of telling him of Jack's mad behavior and asking his advice upon how to find the boy. More than that, being thoroughly feminine, she was a little piqued that he could so quickly lose interest in her because through an accident she'd had to spend a night in the mountains with Rock.

An hour later when she returned to her car she was still angry at Bill. She flung her packages into the seat and started to climb in. Then:

"Oh, there you are!" some one called. She looked up to see Rock. "I went out to your house to see you," he said, flashing upon her one of his swift, charming grins.

It occurred to her that he could get almost anything he wanted with that grin. Why couldn't Bill Langdon be like that instead of being so grouchy? He had charm if he wanted to use it.

"I've got things to say to you, lady," Rock broke into her thoughts. "Let's go some place where we can take our refreshments and talk."

"All right," she locked her car, then turned suddenly to face him. "Oh, Rock, I'm so worried."

"About me keeping you out all night?"

"No, I haven't had time even to think about that. My brother Jack's left college, and I don't know where he's gone."

"Well," Rock laughed. "I can't plan him for that when I practically skipped college myself."

"But you came home when you left. I haven't the faintest idea where Jack is."

"He'll turn up all right. Was your mother worried about you not coming home the other night?"

"Terribly."

"Mine was about to call out the marines."

"I think Leila was more worried than any one else in our family."

"She didn't want her sister-in-law compromised?"

In the restaurant, in a curtained booth, he took a swift turn into seriousness. Nelda sensed there was something on his mind and that he didn't exactly know how to say it. As he gazed at her he flipped a match into flame and lighted a cigarette.

"Nelda," he said, looking through smoke rings at her, "I'm going to make an honest woman of you."

"Meaning what?"

"Keeping you out the other night as I did has put a stain upon your reputation."

"Who said so?"

"I'm Crazy About You"

WITH a dismissing wave, he said, "It doesn't make any difference who said so."

"You're kidding me, aren't you?" Indignation made her voice low and tense.

"Why not?" He ground out his cigarette.

She jumped to her feet.

"If you expect an answer to that," she blazed, starting out, "it's no."

He leaped after her, grabbed her hand and pulled her toward him.

"Whoa, spitfire!" he cried. "You're as hot as I insulted you. Instead of asking you to be my wife."

"Sounds like a phony proposal to me!"

"It is not!" He kissed her hand. "I'm crazy about you, Nelda. Perhaps I put it badly when I said I wanted to make an honest woman of you. But you should know me by this time. Bad sense of humor."

"My mistake," she mocked and turned her back.

Because of his remark about the lettuce, she'd been on the point of telling him of Jack's mad behavior and asking his advice upon how to find the boy. More than that, being thoroughly feminine, she was a little piqued that he could so quickly lose interest in her because through an accident she'd had to spend a night in the mountains with Rock.

An hour later when she returned to her car she was still angry at Bill. She flung her packages into the seat and started to climb in. Then:

"Oh, there you are!" some one called. She looked up to see Rock. "I went out to your house to see you," he said, flashing upon her one of his swift, charming grins.

It occurred to her that he could get almost anything he wanted with that grin. Why couldn't Bill Langdon be like that instead of being so grouchy? He had charm if he wanted to use it.

"I've got things to say to you, lady," Rock broke into her thoughts. "Let's go some place where we can take our refreshments and talk."

"All right," she locked her car, then turned suddenly to face him. "Oh, Rock, I'm so worried."

"About me keeping you out all night?"

"No, I haven't had time even to think about that. My brother Jack's left college, and I don't know where he's gone."

"Well," Rock laughed. "I can't plan him for that when I practically skipped college myself."

"But you came home when you left. I haven't the faintest idea where Jack is."

"He'll turn up all right. Was your mother worried about you not coming home the other night?"

"Terribly."

"Mine was about to call out the marines."

"I think Leila was more worried than any one else in our family."

"She didn't want her sister-in-law compromised?"

Nelda did everything she possibly could to locate Jack. She notified the bureau of missing persons, inserted notices in the personal columns of newspapers in several large cities, begging him to communicate with her. She wrote to a number of boys in his classes in the hope that one of them might know his whereabouts. But her efforts yielded nothing.

She didn't tell any one in the family about the situation, for she knew she could expect little or no help from them. Stan might try to locate Jack, but she felt he could do no more than she was doing. Too, she feared that Stan or Leila would want to borrow Jack's fund if they knew the boy had quit college.

Leila was delighted over Nelda's engagement to Rock and was already making plans for creating the Reckless social citadel. To Nelda she was positively fulsome in her attentions. She offered to take charge of all the wedding arrangements and to take care of Mrs. Barrie while the bridal pair would be away on their honeymoon.

"We'll be glad to keep her all the time," Leila said magnanimously.

But Nelda had talked it over with Rock and they decided that Mrs. Barrie would live with them. There would be enough income from the ranch to employ a nurse to attend her and to make her feel independent.

What Uncle Sam and Laura would do, Nelda didn't know. She was trying to evolve some way for them to be taken care of after her marriage.

Woodstock Carolers.
 Woodstock, Dec. 29.—The high spot of the community celebration of Christmas came on Friday afternoon when about 20 Woodstock children sang Christmas carols throughout the village. Stanley Longyear provided a truck driven by Eddie Ostrander for the transportation of the children who, under the direction of Besse Cohn, sang in front of many homes and on many street corners. The happy evening was terminated at the home of Miss Anita Smith where served refreshments of hot chocolate, cookies and candy. This old-fashioned custom was revived this year through the cooperation of the Woodstock Historical Society.

Historic Houses of Kingston

No. 20—Peter Cornelius Low House

One of the oldest houses in this city is the Peter Cornelius Low house on Converse street. It formed part of the northwest entrance to the old stockade and was erected between the dates of 1665 and 1669 by Peter Cornelius Low, who came to this country from Holland in 1659. It was burned when the British invaded Kingston in 1777 but was immediately rebuilt.

The old building is rather odd in shape, being quite different from most of the other stone houses of this vicinity. From a description in an old book it was found that some years after the abolition of the old stockade, the Low house was the center of activity with numerous barns and a mill flanking it. The main wagon road to the ford crossing the creek went past the door.

A very complete history of the house has been compiled after considerable research by one of the ancestors of the builder, and this information is in the possession of the present owner and is reproduced here.

In 1668 Peter Cornelius Low married Elizabeth Blanshan, daughter of Matthew Blanshan. He died in 1691 and was survived by his wife, six sons, and three daughters. In 1710 the youngest child became of age and the estate was closed. The will provided that one-half of the estate go to the widow and the other half to the children, but the mother sold her interest to five of the children who took lands on the "north side of the Great Kill for their share." That the old house went to the remaining four descendants can be ascertained from the quotation, "that certain house, mill house, mill, mill dam, pasture, orchard, garden, barn, barracks, and all the grounds thereunto on the south side of the Great Kill as the same formerly did belong unto Peter Cornelius Low deceased."

Shortly after the transaction recorded above, three of the heirs who owned the house sold their interest to Benjamin Smeeds, husband of Madeline Low Smeeds who owned a quarter interest in the property. In 1767 Benjamin Smeeds died and the house came into the possession of his son Nathan Smeeds who relinquished his title to the house in 1783 to Benjamin Bogardus. While in the possession of Mr. Bogardus, the mill pond was sold to "Kingston village for draining purposes." Rachel Bogardus, who came into title on the death of her husband, sold the house in 1816 to Peter E. Osterhouse, and then sold the remainder of the property to Edward O'Neill in the year 1830.

The Low house rates the doubtful distinction of being sold by the sheriff in 1926 because the owner evidently could not satisfy his creditors, and thus the house passed into the possession of John Sudann and Isaac DuBois, the latter deeding his interest to John Sudann in 1827. In 1831 John Sudann and wife sold the house to Edward O'Neill who the year before had purchased the remainder of the Low property from Mrs. Bogardus, and thus the holdings were once again in one place. # Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Twelve or 15 years ago Thornton Wilder wrote a novel called "The Bridge of San Luis Rey." ... It was a weirdly beautiful story of a group of characters wholly unrelated to one another. ... The bridge itself was an ancient vine-twisted ladder-like affair which stretched across a bottomless cavern. ... It had provided passage for hundreds of years. ... One day the fates willed that all these characters should set foot upon the bridge at the same time. ... And the bridge fell.

New York witnessed a San Luis Rey of its own the other day but nobody was hurt. ... As a matter of record, New York officially didn't witness it at all. ... It just happened that three writers of widely different schools of thought came back to Manhattan after long intervals of remaining away.

Max Brand was one. ... Max is the ex-pulp fictionist who writes million words a year. ... He has been spinning most of his yarns against the background of chateaux on the sun-drenched Riviera.

THEN there was Thornton Wilder himself, who has written many books since you first read "The Bridge." ... But for all his success at classical prose, he has always had a hankering to write for the theater. ... Wilder, who in actual life professes to be lazy and who has no high regard for an excessive lot of money, is indulging his whim at the moment.

In a rural retreat which is some 40 minutes from Broadway he is completing an original play which will soon go into rehearsal.

Phil Stong is another. He is the author of "State Fair" and at least three other novels which have been fine successes. Like Brand and Wilder, Mr. Stong has long remained away from the raucous clatter of 52nd street.

LAST NIGHT Mr. Brand, feeling lonely, or maybe he was just a little thirsty, put on his hat strolled up Broadway, and sat down at the counter of a drugstore.

As he ordered a confection Mr. Wilder sauntered in through a different door. He was perhaps less than three feet from Mr. Brand when a clerk complied with his request for tobacco. ... Neither happened to see the other, nor did they see Phil Stong, who was a few feet away browsing through a shelf of new books. ...

Mr. Stong presently hurried away. ... Mr. Wilder hurried right out behind him. ... Mr. Brand, meanwhile, has hurried out a side door. ... It seemed odd that these three should have arrived at an identical point without seeing one another after crossing half the globe.

"I'm from the post-office in next village," said the boy, "and this is a registered letter, and very important as I told your rub crow."

"Some day I'll get even with you grabbing my letter like that!" the boy turned to Christopher.

"He meant no harm by it," said Willy Nilly. "We don't get letters here very often and he was excited. He only wanted to hand it to me." Willy Nilly felt it was as well to make sure

Henry J. Nead, 19, of Lester, Wis., confessed, according to authorities, that he slapped his six weeks old foster son to death on Christmas Day at the behest of the taunting ghost of his dead father. He is shown being assisted from the Portage county court house, Stevens Point, Wis., after collapsing. Left to right: Frank Lynn, deputy sheriff; Nead; Sheriff Henry Becker of Wood county; Undersheriff Cliff Bluet of Wood county. Nead was ordered committed to a hospital for observation.

Says Government Spending Must End

automobile called for better highways, costing the county and state vast sums. Then came the so-called "social welfare" movement with its great growth in cost to government. In Columbia county in 1931 there were 13 people on old age pension while today under our present Old Age Pension system there are 700. An increase in six years of this astounding figure had placed great financial burden upon the county and upon state and federal government.

Favors Genuine Aid
Mr. Callan said he was in favor of giving aid where it was needed but he decried the tendency of thought today of "letting down the barriers of resistance" and seeking government support. When the constitution was originally drawn there was no thought that the government owed the people a living but rather that the people owed the government support. He urged that there be a return to this idea and that everyone support the government, that they resist efforts of auditors to break down our form of government and he asked that "we pledge ourselves to one form of government and that form be our own democratic form."

"Think America. Keep away from foreign influences. Be American to keep us under our form of government as written in the Constitution," he urged.

Major Callan in speaking of increased cost of government said that 25 years ago the cost of state government was $15,000,000 while today it was $300,000,000. He said it was impossible to return to the old form of government.

sible to return to the days of the past but he said we could not continue to increase expenditures in a spending orgy without a complete collapse of government.

President Luther Dushnere of the association presided as toastmaster and when the dinner had been disposed of he presented Democratic County Chairman Bernard A. Culliton and Republican County Chairman Philip Elting in presenting Judge Culliton as one of the guests of the evening. Mr. Dushnere said he was happy to have both the county chairmen present.

The Most Noise.
Judge Culliton in a happy frame said that while the followers of Mr. Elting might outnumber the Culliton followers at the banquet, he believed his "boys" had been making the most noise in conclusion he wished everyone a very happy New Year.

Mr. Elting was next presented. He said he had attended each of the 21 annual banquets of the association. His early recollections he said dated back with the Board of Supervisors and he cherished the memories of these associations. Always proud of Ulster county wherever he went he said the record of the county was such that anyone could be proud of it. In referring to the several Democratic chairmen whom he had known in his long term as Republican County Chairman he said he was proud to say that he had always been on speaking terms with them. "We go out and fight like — each year, but after all they are pretty good fellows," he said with a broad smile.

Proud of Ulster.
Mr. Elting said that good local government was everything and good government depended upon the citizens. Ulster county had always maintained a local government of which the people might be proud.

Vice-President Ross K. Osterhoudt, asked to present the other speaker of the evening, said that he was glad to be present as an active supervisor but regretted that it was his last appearance as such. He said he had enjoyed the associations and hoped they might meet at the annual banquet for many years. Mr. Osterhoudt then presented L. H. Krissler of Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Krissler is principal of the Krissler Commercial School in Poughkeepsie. In a humorous way he presented a serious thought, that of the need of cooperation in order to succeed. Throughout his talk he kept the audience in a happy frame of mind.

Entertainment Provided.

Had there been no entertainment provided by the committee in the way of professional entertainers the evening would not have been a solemn occasion for on deck. Among the outstanding "local talent" members of the association who entertained at various times with dance numbers. He attained his greatest peak when he did a "tray tap" during the dinner, using one of the large serving trays as a tap mat placed upon the marble floor of the dining room. There was no doubt that his act would have "revived" well on any amateur radio hour. For diversification he later did a solo dance. Another outstanding local "talent" star was George Cragan who acted as master of ceremonies so far as the musical program went and took personal charge of and conducted the Sickles Entertainers of Saugerties who formed the professional entertainment section of the program. The Sickles Entertainers proved to be one of the high lights of the evening with numerous specialty numbers, both vocal and instrumental.

The committee in charge of the dinner was Luther Dushnere, Ross K. Osterhoudt, James V. Halloran, Robert A. Snyder, Herbert E. Thomas and Clarence T. Voss.

The officers of the association are: Luther Dushnere, president; Fred Stang, secretary and Charles R. O'Connor, treasurer.

MENTAL CLINICS TO BE HELD HERE IN JANUARY

Friday, January 7, and Friday January 21, mental clinics will be held in the Board of Health Clinic Rooms, Municipal Building, 27 East O'Reilly street, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.

All patients on parole from the Middletown State Homeopathic Hospital are requested to report to the clinic to which they have been assigned.

Free consultation and advice will be given to anyone who desires to talk with the physician about his own mental condition or that of a relative or friend.

A producer must keep a play running three weeks to share in the motion picture rights.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Ernest Truex came in from a golf game for lunch, and across the table opined that golf was a great game for worriers.

This five feet three inches of dapper stage fame didn't say he was worried, not in so many words. He just brought out the fact that in several cans of celluloid at three different studios his image is awaiting preview.

Moreover, with a new movie contract, he has done an unprecedented thing for him—leaved a home for two years, meaning he'll stay, come what may, in Hollywood.

He's Better Known On Stage

"The last time," he explained, "I think I didn't stay long enough. Made 'Whistling in the Dark' and 'The Warrior's Husband' and skipped within a week, figuring that was time for someone to speak if there were any great demand that I stay."

So the last time—and several times before that—Ernest Truex went back to the stage. At 47, although he's of the stage and scarcely known in pictures—he's a walking encyclopedia of movie history, knew pictures in their rookbottom nickelodeon days.

It was 25 years ago he played the boy lead—at 22—in David Belasco's "Good Little Devil."

"We made another picture," he recalls, "and I thought it was a great idea—but then Jack Pickford came along doing the same type of parts I was doing."

"Back on the stage a while, then I got in with George Fitzmaurice, George Soutz and Ouida Bergere on our own film company. We ran out of money after three reels, so we produced a three-reeler. . . . More stage, then Vitaphone. . . . Shirley Mason, Louise Huff, Norma Talmadge. . . . And then no more pictures until 'Whistling in the Dark' . . . I'd always sidestepped or just miss accepting offers. . . . Once I went to England, stayed for four years. . . . The stage was always so certain, pictures seemed otherwise. . . .

"But this time—well, I want to stay. I like it. If I go over half as well as some of my friends insist I will, I'll be set."

At The Theatres

PREVIEWED

Today
Broadway: "Stand-in." The inner workings of the motion picture industry are vividly and humorously explained in this grand comedy tale of a studious young man who goes west to take over the affairs of a picture studio.

The show is a regular Hollywood parade as it explains the details of production, shows how the life at the movie capital is lived with its hates, its joys and its ambitions. The show stars Leslie Howard and he is perfect in the character of the rather simple young man who enters the picture industry a novice and becomes famous later on. The play also offers such sterling performers as Joan Blondell, Humphrey Bogart, Alan Mowbray, C. Henry Gordon and Jack Carson. Tay Garnett directed.

Kingston: "Thrill of a Lifetime" and "Fight for Your Lady." Two average double features are offered at the Kingston, the first a romantic little number about a boy and a girl with both ambition and talent. This one features Johnny Downs and Eleanor Whitney. "Fight for Your Lady" is the associate feature, a comedy drama with Jack Oakie and John Boles starred.

Orpheum: "Here's Flash Casey" and "On Again, On Again." Eric Linden and Boots Mallory are the main players in the first drama at the Orpheum, a story of an ambitious young man while "On Again, On Again" is a Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey comedy number with the two boys working hard to create the laughs. This is far from their best picture but it has its moments of real humor.

Tomorrow
Broadway: Same.
Kingston: Same.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

SOCIETIES • CLUBS • PERSONALS

Parties And Dances To Usher In New Year

The farewell of 1937 and the arrival of 1938 will be a signal for much entertaining throughout the city. Two dances will draw society on New Year's Eve; the Officers' Ball at the Armory and the Assembly Ball at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Officers' Ball is in charge of Captain Charles N. DeBrens assisted by Lieutenants E. A. Steudling, F. L. Coombs, H. V. Clayton, Robert K. Hancock, Andrew Mitchell and Robert Reinhold. Julius Teiler's orchestra will play for the dancing on an elevated bandstand. Colored decorations will be used in the dance hall and to add to the gaiety the New Year will be ushered in with the usual noise-makers and toasts. A buffet luncheon will be served at midnight and from 2:30 on breakfast will be served.

Arrangements for the Assembly Ball are in charge of Messrs. Robert K. Hancock, Stephen D. Hillibrand, Harold King, Robert H. Rodie, William T. Fuller, Thomas Horton, Robert Herzog, J. H. Tremper, Burton Davis, and G. Wallace Cowdise.

Many dinner and cocktail parties are planned prior to the dances. These include a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herzog of Johnstown avenue who will have 16 guests for dinner. Also entertaining at dinner will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Hancock of Richmond Park who will have as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Davis, Lieut. and Mrs. George S. Robinson of Cambridge, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnson of Brooklyn, Miss Elizabeth Betz and Stanworth Hancock.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tremper will entertain their friends at cocktails at their home on Albany avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Joyce will entertain at cocktails at their home, John Burgevin will be host to an egg-nog party. Mr. and Mrs. John W. Clarke of Hartford, Conn., will be hosts to some 20 guests at cocktails at the home of Mrs. Clarke's mother, Mrs. Newton Fessenden, of Fair street.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Plunkett will entertain guests at a buffet supper at their home on Pearl street preceding the Officers' Ball. The party is in honor of their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoctor and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hallenbeck of New York city.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis E. O'Connor will also entertain on New Year's Eve at their home on Manor avenue.

On New Year's Day the outstanding event is the tea dance at the Governor Clinton Hotel sponsored by the Junior Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Warren of Hurley have issued invitations to a tea and "eat home" on New Year's afternoon. Hollister Sturges and Bernard Wohlbaest will be hosts at a cocktail party at their apartment on Marius street, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Ray Everett will be hosts at an egg-nog party.

The Rev. and Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool will be hosts at a reception to the members and friends of the First Dutch Reformed Church and the Rev. and Mrs. Maurice W. Venno of St. John's Episcopal Church will be hosts at the second in a series of teas for their parishioners.

The week will wind up with a cocktail party at which Mr. and Mrs. John C. M. Hilton of "Stroomzeit," Saugerties, will "drink a toast" with their friends to the New Year.

Hostess at Bridge

Miss Mildred Byrne was hostess at a holiday bridge party Wednesday evening at her home on Van Buren street. Her guests were the Misses Elizabeth Egan, Elise Short, Evelyn Douglas, Elizabeth Bannan, Roberta McCrea, Alva Reilly, Lucille Coffin, Jean Rifenbary, Christine Coffin, Nancy and Harriet Huser, Mary Cunningham and Florence Knetsch.

Jackets' Coach to Wed

Mrs. Elsie McLean of Albany avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Elsie May, to Marco Tiano of Flatbush, popular local athlete, coach of the Yellow Jacket football team. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Entertained at Luncheon

Mrs. E. R. Ackery of Albany avenue entertained at luncheon today the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur G. Carroll, Miss Edna Merritt, a missionary to China on furlough, and Miss Jean Chan, a Chinese student at Moody's Institute, Chicago.

Musical Held at Knauth Residence

Mrs. Antonio Knauth was hostess with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Berthold Knauth, Wednesday afternoon at a musical at her residence on Albany avenue. Eighty guests from Kingston, Woodstock and Saugerties enjoyed the afternoon of music presented by Mrs. Henry Dunbar, Harry Elmendorf and Julius Schendel.

Mrs. Dunbar opened the program with a group of four soprano solos, "Vol Che Sapete" by Mozart; "Beau Soir" by Debussy; "Ständchen" by Strauss; and "Meine Liebe Ist Grün" by Brahms. Mr. Elmendorf followed with two piano solos, Chopin's "Etude in A-flat Major" and Brahms' "Rhapsodie".

Mrs. Dunbar's second group opened with a composition, "Talisman" by her brother, Peter Knauth, which was being presented to an audience for the first time. She continued with "None but the Lonely Heart" by Tschalkowsky; "The Shepherd" by Worth; and "Homing" by De Reig. At the conclusion of this group Mrs. Dunbar was presented with a sheaf of talisman roses. Mr. Elmendorf accompanied Mrs. Dunbar.

The audience received a delightful surprise when Mrs. Knauth presented Julius Schendel, concert pianist, and one of the guests who had graciously consented to play. Mr. Schendel played compositions by Brahms, Chopin, Schumann, the very lovely "Moonlight Sonata" by Beethoven and three of his own compositions, "Intermezzo", "Capriccio" and "Nocturne". He also played numerous request numbers.

At the conclusion of the program the guests enjoyed a cocktail hour.

Bachelor-Spinster Ball Attracts Many

Approximately 100 couples attended the annual Bachelor and Spinster Ball held last evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel. It was one of the most successful given by the organization. Couples from Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Woodstock, Saugerties, Stone Ridge, Highland and Beacon made merry and danced to the music of George Sours Orchestra.

The committee on arrangements were Robert Chambers, chairman; Miss Elaine LeFevre, Miss Janet Betz, Miss Marion Farrell, Miss Joseph Pratt, Bruce Winne, Richard Lamb, Richard Haviland, William Merrill and Stephen Hillibrand.

Preceding the dance Dr. and Mrs. Harold Clarke entertained at dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel for their daughter, Miss Betty Clarke. The guests were Miss Helene Gregory, Miss Martha Jean Bernstein, Miss Eleanor King, Miss Barbara Matthews, Miss Gay Chambers, Miss Anne Fessenden, Miss Ruth DeNke, Miss Cecile Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Clark and Messrs. Robert Everett, William Fessenden, Douglas Hasbrouck, John Sweeney, George Lowe, Frederick Smith, Frederic Holcomb, Jr., Richard Jones, and Bruce Van Gaasbeek.

Junior D.A.R. Holds Christmas Dance

The Junior Group of Willwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its first Christmas dance last evening in the Chapter House on Crown street. This is the first dance of its kind and it is hoped that it will become an annual affair of the youthful season.

Thirty-five couples danced in rooms that had once been the scene of gay balls prior to the Revolution, and were visited by Washington when he came to pay his respects to the ladies of the household. Instead of stately minuets of that time, the walls resounded to the modern rhythms played by Ray Randall and his orchestra.

Christmas decorations were used throughout the house. Candles and poinsettias were placed in each window and candlelight was used extensively in the decorations. Christmas trees stood in the corridors, the mantles were banked in green and from the chandeliers hung sprigs of mistletoe. The old colonial home lent itself favorably to the decorations. The dance was arranged by Mrs. Stuart Randall and her committee consisting of Mrs. John Garrao and Mrs. William Shuler.

NEW OFFICIALS

Mino, special city judge, the first of the year.

Mr. Elmendorf, who is president of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, for a number of years has been employed by the Kingston Coal Company on Thomas street. He is a member of the American Legion and a past commander of Kingston Post. Mr. Elmendorf is being appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of C. Ray Everett, who has served as city treasurer for four years, and resigned, owing to the fact that he believed he should devote his entire time to his business.

Craig Resigns
Joseph H. Craig, who has been city accountant for several years, has also resigned his position to take effect the first of the year when he will enter the employ of one of the leading banking houses of the city.

Mr. Craig's successor, Mr. Fassbender, had been a public accountant for some years, and is well qualified for his new duties with the city government. Mr. Fassbender for several days has been at work in the city treasurer's office where he has been shown all of the various details of the position by Mr. Craig.

Mino Is Appointed

Raymond J. Mino, of 207 Wall street, who will succeed Walter H. Gill as special city judge the first of the year, is one of the younger members of the Ulster County bar. He attended School No. 6 and on his graduation entered Kingston High School where he was graduated as a member of the class of '23. He then entered Cornell where he remained two years, leaving to enter Fordham Law School where he was graduated. He was admitted to the bar in November of 1935 and was connected with the law office of Lloyd R. LeFevre for several years, recently opening a law office of his own at 44 Main street.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

loaded in today's market but the trend generally was upward. Prospects of a rearmament program getting under way soon once more spurred steel, aircraft and miscellaneous issues.

Light profit realizing pared early gains running to two points or so, but advances predominated near the final hour.

Dealings were slow from the start, with turnover at the rate of about 1,000,000 shares.

Motors, rails and utilities encountered some difficulty in getting ahead, most holding their gains to fractions. Scattered losers also were in evidence.

Corporation bonds did a bit better but federal loans were lower. Commodities were slightly uneven.

Tending to cool trading ardor also were reports Secretary Ickes, in a speech scheduled for delivery this evening, would make another onslaught on "big business."

Conversely, talk was heard in Wall Street that the Chief Executive's recommendations to the legislators would be more conciliatory than the addresses of other administration officials.

Shares prominent on the upside most of the day were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Inland Steel, Crucible, B. B. King, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, American Can, Westinghouse, U. S. Rubber, DuPont, Reynolds Tobacco, U. S. C. C. There is doubt that the latter may accept the condition.

Car loadings for the week ended December 25 are estimated at approximately 150,000 cars, more than seasonal decline and comparing with 562,218 in the corresponding week last year.

Largest declines are shown by shares serving industrial centers. There is talk of a possible merger of Western Union and Postal Telegraph.

At Lynn, Mass., yesterday, provisions of a one-year contract calling for ten per cent wage reductions were explained to 2,000 shoe workers.

The Pittsburgh plant of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co. closed last summer for six weeks by CIO demonstration, has been abandoned. It was reported yesterday.

The plant employed 150 men. It is reported that residential building costs dropped 1.8 per cent during November.

Industrial Stocks Showed Gains

Stocks showed slight gains in earlier trading Wednesday, sold off in the middle of the day and then rallied in the last hour of trading to close with gains, except for the utilities, which showed a slight loss. Industrial stocks, on the Dow-Jones averages, showed a gain for the day of 1.22 points, closing at 120.15. Ralls gained 0.25 point, to 29.15. Utilities lost 0.09 to 19.88. Trading was up to 2,450,000 shares.

By a vote of 533 to 413 New York Stock Exchange members voted in favor of a new schedule of commission rates which it is estimated will increase charges to the public about 11 per cent. Schedule will go into effect January 3.

Republic Steel lighted another open hearth furnace and Birmingham operations advanced to 63 per cent of capacity. Steel scrap advanced 50 cents a ton at Pittsburgh, to $14-$14.50, compared with a recession of $13.

Electric output about held its own last week and topped slightly the figures of a year ago.

The ICC has approved direct acquisition of Erie and Nickel Plate by the Chesapeake & Ohio; also approved $6,000,000 RFC loan to Erie, providing there is full guaranty of the loan by C. & O. There is doubt that the latter may accept the condition.

Snow Train Will Not Run Unless More Snow Falls

The special week-end holiday train, which was to have been run from New York through the Catskill mountains for the convenience of winter sports enthusiasts, Friday, has been removed from the schedule of the New York Central Railroad. It was announced this afternoon.

Informing The Freeman, and James A. Simpson of the Phoenicia Ski Club about the cancellation of the New Year's Eve special train, the New York Central stated that the plans had been changed because the mountain lacks enough snow for winter sports programs. Another change may be made, however, in the event of a snowstorm to night, and the special snow train may make the trip.

Winter sports are not the only attractions in the Catskill mountain section, though. Reservations at the various hostels in the mountains of week-end holiday guests from New York and other communities around the metropolis, are said to be exceptionally numerous.

Most of the visitors are expected to arrive on the regular 10 p. m. West Shore train, Friday night, and buses will transport them to the various resorts around Woodstock, Phoenicia, Pine Hill and Fleischmanns.

Civics Green Party Wins

Coming through with a safe majority of 178 to 77, Robert Friedman the candidate for Mayor representing the Green Party in the elections held by the Civics classes at the Kingston High School recently, led the remainder of his followers into the City Hall in the second annual school-run city government by the students for a day. Mr. Friedman's opponent was Phyllis Fitzgerald.

Following the election Miss Fitzgerald, congratulated her successful foe in the usual manner. The only important office annexed by the White Party was the City Judge. In this race Helen Weaver secured a slight win over her adversary, James Hasbrouck, with the final tally reading 133 to 132.

Weeks before the annual election Robert Friedman representing the Green Wave bore down on his foes distributing little nicknacks which in the final vote, probably had something to do. Mr. Friedman's running mate, Edward Davis, who was seeking the alderman-at-large office also saw victory by defeating Helen Byer, a White candidate, by the count of 160 to 103.

The aldermen who were victorious in the past election are as follows: White Party—Doris Roenn, Marie Conlin, Therest Eidemoll, Marian Davis, Josephine DeCicco and William Jelleva. The lawmakers of the Green Party are Virginia Johnston, Carol Kaplan, Joyce Winne, Chester Bliss, Bart Reilly, William Sawyer and Sidney Pearson.

Soon after the opening of the high school again these successful politicians will hold their day of governing the city.

Animals, With No Hands, Have Problem in Eating

We humans, who take our bread in our hands and carry it without further ado to our mouths and in emergencies cup our hands to carry water to our lips, seldom consider the problem which confronts most animals obliged to get food to their mouths without the use of hands, observes a writer in the Washington Star.

The monkey is the only animal which is as well off in this respect as man. Mice and squirrels and chipmunks do nearly as well, by sitting up and employing their forepaws to grasp food and to carry it to their mouths.

The praying mantis, a skinny, ugly insect, uses its front "praying" legs to carry food to its mouth. And crabs and lobsters are not badly off because their pincers end in two fingers with which they can carry food.

For convenience in getting food to its mouth the elephant, with its long, like trunk, comes next. This trunk, which is really only a stretched-out nose, not only carries the elephant's food from considerable distances, but it easily picks up choice morsels with the lip-like end of the trunk.

Most birds use their tongues and bills only to get food with, but the owl and the parrot stand on one foot and pick up insects with the other, balancing quite comfortably on a single leg.

Beads, Gunpowder, Skins, Indians' "Legal Tender"

Wampus or "legal tender" among the Indians was beadwork. It was of two kinds, white and black. The white was made from conch or periwinkle shells, and the black, which was really more purple in color, was made from the hard-shell clams. The chief center for their "manufacture" was Long Island, notes a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer. The shells were broken into pieces, rubbed on stones until smooth and perhaps a little thicker than the United States silver dollar. The accepted length was three-sixteenths of an inch. Often they were pierced with a drill of some sort. They were strung on strips of deer leather, sometimes made into belts. One large war belt is said to have consisted of 12,000 beads of wampus.

For a time in the early days of this country gunpowder was considered legal tender. Gunpowder values were reckoned by the handful and the Indians with the biggest hands were employed to do the bargaining. Later on, beaver skins were used as well as tobacco, lumber and wheat.

The 3rd annual North American Wildlife Conference will be held in Baltimore, Maryland, February 11 to 17, with headquarters at the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Larsen and daughter, Lillian, and Mrs. Ralph Sahler and daughter, Zella, were entertained on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Vina Crawford.

All are glad to hear Mrs. Kate Beatty is on the road to recovery after undergoing an operation at Kingston Hospital.

RED CAR, RED FACE.
Fire Chief Victim of Embarrassing Circumstances.

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—The fire chief's car caught fire twice today and his face was as red as his transportation.

Responding to a downtown blaze, Assistant Chief Joseph O'Hanlon and his chauffeur dismounted the upholstery ablaze. They stopped and—they thought—extinguished the fire.

Reaching the Loft building from which the alarm had been sounded, Chief O'Hanlon turned attention to the blazing structure.

But not for long. Another fireman saw smoke issuing from the chief's car. It was that seat again.

Tokyo, Dec. 30 (AP)—For the first time in years Japan has a decline in the suicide rate, and the official report attributes it to the spirit attending Chinese-Japanese warfare. The 1937 suicide total was 380 less than the 2,681 recorded last year. Double love suicides dropped from 123 to 96.

Alan Gould Presents His List Of 1937's Sports Highlights

By ALAN GOULD.
New York (AP).—Notwithstanding a few jars and jolts, along with the customary allotment of thrills for a boom-time rush of cash customers, the sporting whirl of 1937 has been notably free from headaches for the form-players. In spheres of major competition, favorites performed with a consistency that was as welcome to the harassed expert as it was distressing to the long-shot players. On the international fronts, it was a big year for Uncle Sam's operatives, who nanted their British cousins a series of setbacks at golf, tennis, and yachting. The caliber or class of performances, on the whole, was strikingly above the average in nearly all big branches of competition. What were the 10 leading episodes or events of the sports year, taking into account the elements of drama, excitement, caliber of performance and significance? Here they are and why we pick them:

Budge-ing The Cup.

1. John Donald Budge's thrilling uphill triumph over Germany's Baron Gottfried von Cramm (left) in the deciding match of the inter-zone Davis Cup series—not only because it was as great a tennis match as Wimbledon ever has seen but because the 1937 destination of the classic team trophy hinged upon its outcome. At Forest Hills, where he won the American crown for the first time.

Coming 'Way Back.

2. Ralph Guldahl's victory in the United States open golf championship at Oakland Hills, because it was a record-amazing climax to one of the greatest comebacks the sport ever has known. Down and almost out the previous year, so financially harassed that he borrowed "eating money" on his club, Guldahl began an amazing uphill fight. He also led the American forces in their Ryder cup rout of the British team at Southport, England.

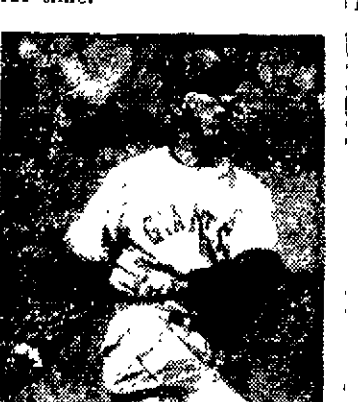

Admiral's Triumphs.

3. War Admiral's triumph in the Belmont stakes, because it gave the stout son of Man O' War the turf's "triple crown" for 5-year olds. War Admiral won the Belmont in record time, 2:28 3-5 for the mile-and-a-half, thereby clipping a fifth of a second off Man O' War's track mark and equalling the American record. Only Mrs. C. S. Howard's Sealaska topped War Admiral as a money-winner.

Louis' Fight.

4. Joe Louis' knockout of James J. Braddock for the heavyweight championship of the world, because it completed the Brown Bomber's remarkable rise to the top of the fist heap, only a year after being knocked out by Max Baer, and marked the first time a negro held the main crown of pugilism in 22 years. Louis proved his gumption by getting up from a first-round knock-down to subdue Braddock with a knock-out in the eighth.

Giant Rally.

5. The New York Giants' rally to tie the Chicago Cubs with a 5-run flareup in the ninth inning at the Polo Grounds August 25—because it saved a crucial game that looked irrefutably lost, propelled the Giants to a double victory and turned the tide of the National League race. Bill Terry's club went into the double-leader trailing by four games.

Shaw's Show.

6. Wilbur Shaw's victory over Veteran Ralph Hopton by the amazing close margin of 2.16 seconds in the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race on Memorial Day, because it was a record-smasher in every particular. Nursing his fast-dwindling supply of gas through the last few laps, Shaw (above) captured the closest race in Indianapolis history.

Redskin Massacres.

7. The successive triumphs of the Washington Redskins in professional football over the New York Giants and Chicago Bears, because they lifted the pro game to new heights of popularity and climaxed the unprecedented forward-passing exploits of Slingin' Sam Baugh.

Husky Sweep.

8. Washington's second straight sweep of the intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie, because it added a record-smashing chapter to rowing history and climaxed the greatest 8-oared varsity performance of all. The Huskies broke regatta records in both junior varsity and varsity races. The "big boatload" lowered the 4-mile record to 15 minutes.

Johnny's March.

9. Johnny Goodman's triumph over the "Cinderella Man" of golf, Ray Billows, on the home green in the national amateur championship finals because it climaxed an 8-year pursuit and put him in a class with Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Jerry Travers and Bob Jones—all holders of both amateur and open crowns. Goodman won the national open in 1933 after losing in the amateur finals the year before to Canada's Ross Somerville.

Sailing Away.

10. Ranger's sweep of the four America's cup yacht races with Endeavour II, the British challenger, because it was a tribute to American boat-building craft and a personal triumph for Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper of the defender. Vanderbilt's third successive defense of the famous old mug equalled the mark of the old professional sailing master, Charley Barr. Ranger featuring radical departures in yacht design that produced electrifying results, broke many cup records.

Severino Outpoints VanKleeck In Fast Bout at Auditorium

PICKING OFF 7% SPARES—4 SIXTS

Irv Van Kleeck, local junior lightweight, got his chance with Mario Severino Wednesday night before a crowd at the municipal auditorium, and although he dropped the decision, put up a game fight that had the patrons on edge all the way through the five rounds.

Going in on the very short end of the odds, Van Kleeck surprised many of the Severino boosters by being in, and slugging it out toe to toe with the Schenectady star for two rounds. But he weakened in the third and Severino bounced rights and lefts off his jaw and punished him with slaying wallops to the midriff.

Withering badly in the third, Van Kleeck took a terrible beating towards the end of this canto and in the fourth and fifth, but he lasted the full route, displaying plenty of courage and gameness.

Although the local boy hadn't a chance after the second round, as far as winning was concerned, he forced Severino to fight as hard as he ever did at the auditorium.

"Severino was in better shape than I," said the boy who almost beat him in the three rounds at the Albany Diamond Belt tournament and thereby won the match with him here. "Condition means a lot in these five rounds, and I realize that I should have stuck to training most strictly."

The weights were Severino 125, Van Kleeck 120.

After two slow rounds, in the semi final, Charley Forezzi, Albany Buzzsaw, stabbed Cliff Leger, Mohawk Indian, with a left that opened a cut over his eye, and Emmet Ryan, referee, stopped the bout, awarding the win to Forezzi on a technical knockout. The weights, Forezzi, 132, Leger, 135, Buddy Emerson, St. Remy 140, pounded, overcame Frankie Thompson's early lead to outpoint the Ballston Lake welterweight in five rounds. The bout was Emerson's first since he won in the Diamond Belt tourney at Albany three weeks ago.

Benny Leone, 138, Johnstown, substituting for Sammy Rizzio, who refused to give away seven pounds to Joe Triola, was knocked out by the Albany southpaw in the third round. Rizzio came in at 131 and Triola, 138.

Charley Rainey, 134, Saucorles, outpointed Billy Ponder, 132, Newburgh, three rounds.

Frankie Emerson, 150, St. Remy, scored a technical knockout over Kid Miller, 145, Kingston, second round.

Monk Armstrong, 147, Kingston, demolished Ray Sings, 145, Newburgh, three rounds.

Officials: Emmet Ryan, referee; R. B. Blakeslee, and Tony Rodriguez, judges; Mort Finch, timer; Sam Rizzo, announcer.

Spirited Fight Indicated for the Basketball Lead

During the past week Philadelphia made rapid strides toward regaining first place in the American Basketball league as a result of a brace of victories over the New York Yankees and also a startling upset scored over Brooklyn Visitations at the court of the latter club last Sunday night. The Reds were enabled to take first place by defeating the Kato Smith Celtics at home. The New York Jewels, after losing at home to Brooklyn Visitations, took the Celtics into camp on the New York Hippodrome runway the following night.

With 21 games remaining to be played before the curtain is drawn on the first half of the American League schedule, it appears now more than likely that all of the five present leading clubs will have a deciding voice in the outcome, as Visitations and the Reds have two games with each other; Philadelphia and the Reds have two contests with Visitations and one with Philadelphia, while the Jewels have a brace of games with Philadelphia, Reds and Kingston still ahead of them.

This week-end will find all American League games under stricter interpretation than heretofore since the start of this year's campaign. All of the referees were in attendance at a league meeting last Monday night, at which time orders were issued to penalize all offending players for any infraction of the rules of personal nature.

This is particularly aimed at an endeavor to clean up the marked holding heretofore existing at the center tap.

Standing of League.

Brooklyn Visitations 11 5.657
Jersey Reds 11 5.637
Philadelphia Hebrews 10 6.627
New York Jewels 9 6.571
Kato Smith Celtics 8 8.299
Kingston Colonials 2 12.299
New York Yankees 1 10.691

The Schedule.

Saturday, January 1, Brooklyn Visitations at Kingston; Jersey Reds at Philadelphia; Kato Smith Celtics at New York Jewels.

Sunday, January 2, afternoon, Philadelphia at Jersey Reds; evening, New York Jewels at Brooklyn Visitations; Kingston Colonials at Kato Smith Celtics.

Wednesday, January 5, Philadelphia at Kingston.

New Lights Up for Hockey Workouts

Kingston's hockey team will have the advantage of seven new flood lights for practices at Strubel's Pond the remainder of this week and next in preparation for its first contest of the winter with the Newburgh Falcons Sunday afternoon, January 9.

Today workmen were busy installing the lights, which Manager Walt Donnaruma said, would be complete for this evening's drill on the Albany avenue ice, which is in excellent condition. The team has been taking advantage of the cold snap to work out on the mirror-like ice.

Hockey practice at Strubel's does not interfere with assembly skating, a separate ring being used for the workouts.

Collegiate Cage Results in Garden

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—Minnesota and Stanford, exponents of two widely varied style of basketball, both came from behind last night to keep their New York record clean, the Gophers turning in a 36 to 31 decision over New York University after the west coast Indians had trimmed Long Island University 49 to 35.

As on Monday night, when Minnesota defeated Long Island and Stanford beat City College, more than 18,000 fans packed Madison Square Garden.

Boxers Against Wrestlers on Air

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—The spelling bee of this or any other century is going to be sprayed over the nation's airways on the night of January 13 from Madame Bey's little red school house near Summit, N. J.

The principals, respectfully, will be five boxers of no specified weight and an equal number of wrestlers, and they're going to spell it out to a finish while the country listens. This harrowing exhibition to mental gymnastics is regarded in the nature of a showdown between two sterling groups of athletes.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Webster Emerson, 187, Sioux Falls, outpointed Stan Savoldi, 212, St. Paul, (10).

Birdseye View Of Sports Events

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—Four of the ten coaches who'll have teams in "Bowl" games Saturday use the old Knute Rockne system.

Now that Art Gupe has become freshman football and basketball coach at Marquette his mother has released him from such duties as baking, sewing and making the beds—congratulations Butch. . . . Herb Kopf, one of Dr. Lou Little's assistants at Columbia, seems to have taken Manhattan coaching job sewed up.

Here's a little pick-me-up for the Messrs. Waner, Medwick, et al: Dan Daniel, baseball expert of the New York World-Telegram, says factory tests have proved the so-called "dead" ball the National League will use next season is less than one per cent slower than the apple used in the American League.

Prof. Billy McCannery, one of the slickest of the Broadway fight managers, says he has challenged both Lou Nova and Jimmy Adonis on behalf of his heavyweight Steve Dudas and implores us not to keep it a secret.

Texans will be glad to know Sammy Baugh still sticks to his ten gallon hat even in the effie eastern hotels. . . . We'll take West Virginia by two touchdowns over Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl game. . . . Los Angeles is getting out the welcome mat for Myrtle Capin, New York fight manager, who is heading west with his entire troupe, including Solly Krieger, Abe Feldman, Herbie Katz, Lou Salica and Allie Stoltz.

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Trenton, N. J.—George Koverly, Hollywood, Calif., threw Stan Pinto, 214, Chicago, 27-26.

Newark, N. J.—Billy Hanson, 225, Philadelphia, pinned Abe Kasher, 218, Clifton, 24-01.

St. Louis—Louis Thesz, 218, St. Louis, defeated Everett Marshall, 221, La Junta, Colo., 53-48.

Morgie Forecasts Win for Colonials Over Visitations

Another exciting game, such as Frank Morgenweck's Colonials played with Kato Smith's Celtics, Christmas, is in store for the fans New Year's night, forecasts the Old Maestro, but Kingston is more likely to come out on the long end of the score, he says.

Opponents of the Colonials in the coming holiday clash will be the Brooklyn Visitations, one of the clubs that has bright hopes of ending up with the American League championship this season.

"Although the Visites are going strong and have plenty of speed," said Morgie, "I think we'll give them a better game than we put against the Celtics. The Colonials look to be in great shape and I hope to see John Donlon's boys get a good passing."

Christmas night, the Morgenweckers bowed to the Celtics by four points, but the game was packed with action, and lots of thrills for the basketball fans who crowded the auditorium.

Milt Perkel, latest addition to the local lineup, having come over from the House of David, was the scoring sensation for Kingston, collecting 18 points.

Perkel is sure to start against the Visitations, but outside of Tiny Hearn for center, Morgenweck would not give out any lineup.

Billiard Aces

At Nick's Tonight

Tonight at 9:30 o'clock, Joe Procia, traveling billiard star, and Fred Planthaber, local ace, will hook up in a match contest of 125 balls at Nick Kaslich's parlor on Wall street.

A crowd is expected to watch the two "sharks" duel on the green, and then take advantage of instructions offered by the visiting expert after the contest.

Procia has toured 100,000 miles in four seasons, playing 1134 matches, all of which he won except 19. Joe has defeated such celebrated billiardists as Rudolph and Taberski. He has made 316 runs of 100 or more in road exhibition play.

Allie Shuckmann Gets His Release

Frank Morgenweck, announcing the unconditional release of Allie Shuckmann, former Jewel star, said he intended to wield the ax without mercy after the New Year's contest with the Brooklyn Visitations in the auditorium.

Shuckmann, who made a glowing reputation with St. John's College, as a teammate of Mac-Kinsbrunner, and later with the New York Jewels in the American League, has been stalked by illness for two seasons, and as a result was cut loose by the New York club last season.

Picked up by the Colonials at the beginning of this season, Allie showed much promise for a while, but gradually slipped until he remained out of the lineup entirely.

With Shuckmann released, the Colonials now have Carl Husta, Jimmy Brown, Moe Dubilier, Phil Rabin, Corky Stanton, Milt Perkel, Lamber and Tiny Hearn.

Would Change Two Grid Rules

New Orleans, Dec. 30 (AP).—Football coaches in convention turned today to motion pictures, which have played an increasingly important part in the gridiron sport.

Use of the camera for improving a team's play was up for discussion by a half dozen top-ranking coaches, who advocate it as an essential for correcting faults of individual players.

The coaches yesterday agreed that prevailing rules were pretty much all right with exception of two slight changes. One of the changes recommended by the rules committee would bring the ball in 15 yards when it goes out of bounds or is downed closer than that yardage to the line. The other would make a forward pass that inadvertently was touched by an ineligible man behind the line of scrimmage count as a down instead of loss of the ball.

New York—Gunnar Barlund, 200, Finland, outpointed Alberto Santiago Lovell, 186 1/2, Argentina, (10).

Class Ceremony For Greene-Ulster Masonic Masters

Something new in Masonry in the Greene-Ulster Masonic District was the Lodge of Investiture held in the rooms of the Saenger-Masonic Lodge on Wednesday evening, 119 Masters and Past Masters of the District being present.

The affair, in charge of Scott Ellis of Greenfield, Greene county, the present district deputy grand master, was held on order of Jacob C. Kiluk, grand master of Masons of New York state, who had directed that all the newly elected masters of lodges in the Greene-Ulster district be present and be formally inducted into office on the occasion.

The order was obeyed to the letter and new masters of all the 14 Masonic lodges in the district were present and were invested with the rights and privileges of the office, as a class. Back of the move was the idea of emphasizing the importance of the position of master of the lodge and further, to standardize the investiture ceremony and exemplify the work.

Among those present were 14 past district deputies, the three oldest in order of point of service being Adelbert Austin of Kedemah Lodge, Cairo; Samuel Stern of Rondout Lodge, Kingston and J. William Peeter of Adonal Lodge, Highland, the latter having served two terms as deputy master.

At the conclusion of the lodge session refreshments were served.

Hold Nanuet Man on Larceny Charge

Clifton Stiles, 41, of Nanuet, N. Y., was arrested at that place Wednesday by Deputy Sheriffs Brown and Tinnle, on a warrant charging grand larceny in the second degree. After arraignment before Justice Benjamin H. Sleight, Stiles was held for appearance before the grand jury and was committed to the Ulster county jail.

Stiles' occupation was given as "logging" and the transaction which resulted in the charge against him is said to have been in relation to purchase of oak trees in the Ulster Park section, some 30 trees valued at $10 each having been taken, it is alleged, from land other than that covered by the contract.

The trees were for shipment to New York for construction work in connection with New York city's coming World Fair. Stiles is connected with the Hudson Valley Lumber Co. of Nanuet.

Italo-Nippon Pact.

Rome, Dec. 30 (AP)—Italy and Japan agreed today upon a basis for Japanese trade with Italian East Africa. The accord, which Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and Japanese Ambassador Naomasa Hotta signed at Palazzo Chigi, was described as supplementary to the commercial treaty between the two countries.

A semi-official explanation said the agreement constituted another step in the development of closer political and economic relations between Italy and Japan.

sufficient and also argued that the 1930 basis of true value was the proper one. Particular objection was made by Thomas J. Hunkeler and George F. Kaufman, attorneys for the majority of the claimants, to awards made to Ella V. Gosseline, Raymond Sheeley and Lucy Barthel. They argued that these awards were grossly inadequate.

Later Justice Foster handed down a decision in which he upheld the theory that 1930 values were proper and in his memorandum he stated that testimony offered before the commission as to 1930 values was proper when taken in connection with present day values. In substance he held that there was no "fair market" value at the time of the taking since the country was in the depths of a depression and there was no active real estate market.

New York Appeals.

From the decision of Justice Foster the City of New York took an appeal as to the 1930 theory of value as well as from his confirmation of the Empt award and his rejection of the Lucy Barthels award. In that award he held that the Barthel award should be rejected since there had been no consideration given apparently by the commissioners as to the value of the lots for bungalow sites as alleged. The plaintiff asked $3,000 damages. He held the award made was insufficient.

In the original report made last June the award of $19,550 to the Empts was concurred in by two of the commissioners but Commissioner Graham dissented and placed a value of $12,600 on the property.

When the city of New York took its appeal to the Appellate Division the city objected to the confirmation of the Empt award on two grounds, one that the award was excessive and secondly that the award was made and determined on the wrong theory as to value. The city also objected to the rejection of the Barthel award and appealed from that determination of Justice Foster.

City Attorneys

Throughout the proceeding the city has been represented by Henry Bright, John E. Egan and Vincent G. Connelly while the claimants were represented by Thomas J. Hunkeler and George F. Kaufman of counsel. Mr. Kaufman argued the appeal before the Appellate Division.

In reversing the confirmation of the Empt award by Justice Foster the Appellate Division holds the award was made and determined on a wrong theory and sends the matter back to the Commission for a re-hearing. As to this determination on the legality of the 1930 value theory the Appellate Division is unanimous but on the question of the award being excessive there are two dissenting justices, Justices Hill and Bliss hold that the award to Empt and the Barthel award, which is approved by the court, have been based on other evidence than the "1930 theory" of values and are therefore proper.

In reversing Justice Foster in the Barthel action the Appellate Division holds the amount of the award sufficient.

Whether an appeal will be taken to the Court of Appeals from the decision of the Appellate Division in relation to the "1930 theory" of values is not known but in all probability the matter will be carried to the higher court for final determination since the question is one of great importance to a large number of claimants.
